GO ACT (Glendale Organized Against Cell Towers)

“Get the Cell out of Here!”

with John McMahon, Elise Kalfayan and special guests.

Guests: Elise Kalfayan is a writer and editor with a public policy background; she worked for nine years at The RAND Corporation. Elise now focuses on business and community development issues and publishes the Glendale blog SunroomDesk.com.

John McMahon is the owner of the home that T-Mobile has proposed building a cell tower in front of. The co-founder of two companies in the printing and design industry, John currently runs operations for an entertainment-advertising firm in Hollywood.

In November 2008, Public Works staff from the City of Glendale, working with T-Mobile, attempted to quickly install a cell tower directly in front of a historic home on Cumberland Road. Neighborhood outrage led the city council to put the project on hold, but T-Mobile is committed to pursuing its claimed rights under the Federal Telecom Act of 1996. Watch and find out if your home may be the next target! www.getthecelloutofhere.com
